Allen C. Moulton, labor on and material for Old Jail, as per appropriation by the town, Mar. 12, 1894,	$93 51
---	---------

New Barn and Water Supply at the New Home.

To the Selectmen of York, through whom the undersigned respectively submits to the citizens of the town, for the committee, acting under a vote passed at the annual meeting held March 14th, 1894. To wit: "Voted to raise the sum of $1,000 for a new barn at the town farm and to furnish a supply of water for the New Home, and the contract or contracts to be let to the lowest responsible bidder." William H. Chase, Bradford S. Woodward, Edward B. Blaisdell, Edward E. Young, and Edward C. Moody were chosen a committee to carry out the vote. Voted to leave the old town buildings to the disposal of the committee.

The amount of money appropriated to carry out this desired improvement, and complete what necessity seemed to require, proved to be inadequate. Your committee state that they were embarrassed from the fact that they were debarred the use of material which ordinarily might have been used in the construction of a barn. An attempt to draw the line with a contractor on the timber taken from an old structure to occupy a position in a new one appeared impracticable and would at least have been tedious. Such was the opinion of the mechanics and architect of the committee in which the lay members concurred. In the matter of "Water Supply" the committee made diligent effort to do the best for those whose servants they were. After full and careful consideration they concluded "the old way the best way," and procured an ample supply, easy of access to the Home and barn, the well, cut in solid rock, is unlikely to need repairs, which can hardly be said of any other system or method.

Hereto is appended in gross the sums expended or different branches of the work, accompanied in each item by detailed vouchers.

Amount expended for material in barn,	$754 93
“ “ “ construction of barn,	373 20
“ “ “ cellar and foundation of barn,	57 85
“ “ “ water supply,	154 81
“ “ “ miscellaneous, freight and expenses,	196 61
	$1537 40
Amount received from sale of old buildings,	$68 00
“ “ “ “ “ lumber,	10 00
“ “ “ “ “ shingles,	31 27
“ “ “ town treasury.	1428 13
	$1537 40

In conclusion the committee wish me to say: That we believe the material entering into the work done in cellar, barn and well is first class, the labor unexceptionable.

Respectfully submitted,

B. S. WOODWARD, Clerk for Com.

It will also be perceived that the sum of $5,192 64, cash, is in the treasury, which will liquidate the increase of the town debt from last year and leave a balance of $67 64, cash in the treasury.

G. W. S. PUTNAM,

The fourth annual visit of the Town Officers to the New Home, occurred on Tuesday, the 12th. We were accompanied by a number of citizens who are interested in town affairs; and are pleased with the New Home erected for the poor. An inspection of the Home and premises shows the care of the superintendent; who has labored with much zeal for the best interests of the town. The Home is a model of neatness which is evidence of the matrons care; and that her duties have been performed in a manner conducive to the comfort of those under her care. During the past year a new barn has been erected; and a water supply procured, both of which were a necessity. The barn is a substantial structure with a large cellar. The well furnishes an ample supply of water, and is easy of access to the Home and barn. The Superintendent has not neglected the raising of farm crops the past year. We found in store 33 traces corn, 40 bushels floor corn, 9 bushels beans, 10 bushels barley, 50 bushels large and 50 bushels small potatoes, 10 tons hay, 1 1-2 barrels pork, and a supply of provisions sufficient for the year ending March 31, 1895. There are two oxen, 4 cows and 1 swine on the farm. In the yard are twenty cords of wood, and there are 10 cords housed, all of which is prepared for the stove. We have carefully examined the books of the Selectmen, Overseers and Treasurer and find the accounts accurately cast, with corresponding vouchers therefor. This report is herewith respectfully submitted.

—REPORT—
 —OF THE—
SUPERVISOR * OF * SCHOOLS,
 —FOR THE—
 SCHOOL YEAR ENDING FEBRUARY 15, 1895.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF THE TOWN OF YORK:

It again becomes my duty to report to you the work accomplished by the school department of the town of York during the past year, which, perhaps, can be best done in the usual brief statement of facts relating to each school in detail, commencing with

CENTER SCHOOL. (GRAMMAR DEPARTMENT.)

Mr. Henry L. Corson of Canaan, Maine, was employed to teach the spring term of the Grammar school, which he did so acceptably that his services were secured for the fall term and would have been for the winter term had not other matters demanded his attention. Mr. Corson is a well educated and genial gentleman and was well liked by all with whom he came in contact and by his pupils especially. His two terms of school were highly successful.

The winter term of ten weeks was taught by Mr. J. W. Brooks of Ossipee, N. H. Mr. Brooks is a good, practical teacher of long experience, and under his administration the school not only well sustained the standard of excellence reached in the spring and fall terms, but made good advancement—thoroughness before rapidity being the motto.

CENTER SCHOOL. (INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.)

This school heretofore known and designated as the "Primary school," is composed of pupils too far advanced to remain members of the primary classes and yet not sufficiently far advanced to enter the classes of the Grammar school. It had become so large that it was deemed by the school committee, expedient to divide its members into two classes or, in other words, to create another school which should embrace all pupils who had not passed out of the primer class. This was accordingly done. A room was procured, a teacher employed and another school started with twenty-eight pupils.

Miss Mabel Norton has had charge of the Intermediate school during the entire year and with gratifying success. The position of teacher in this school, which is numerically, the largest in town, is no sinecure and calls for talents of a peculiar order.

CENTER SCHOOL. (PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.)

This school, which is a new one—an offshoot of the old Primary, was established after due deliberation, as a measure of relief to the latter, which had grown to such proportions that it had become unwieldy. Miss Isabelle J. Wright taught both spring and fall. There having been, on account of the inclemency of the weather, a large falling off in attendance toward the close of the fall term, it was not deemed advisable to continue the school through the winter.

RAYNES NECK.

Miss Ellen M. Dennett taught the spring and winter terms of this school and Miss Annie E. Trafton taught in the fall term. The standing of the school seems, at the present time, to be up to the average.

SOUTH SIDE.

At the present time the South Side school is the smallest in numbers of any school in town—the average being but seven.

The spring term was taught by Miss Kate Moulton. Miss Moulton's well known ability and experience as a teacher would seem to point to a larger and more advanced school as her sphere of usefulness. She, however, chose this one as a matter of personal convenience and the scholars reaped the benefit of her choice, as shown by their rapid progress.

Miss Moulton was succeeded by Miss Dennett in the fall term, who was in turn succeeded by Miss Mary Nowell in the winter term. Both of these teachers worked faithfully and conscientiously for the good of the school.

BEECH RIDGE.

The Beech Ridge school was fortunate in having the services of Miss C. Eugenia Junkins as teacher for the spring term. Miss Junkins makes wholesome rules and insists upon their observance. In this way some needed reforms were inaugurated and carried out. Her successful efforts to interest and instruct her pupils were well seconded by Miss Kate Moulton in the fall term, as a legitimate result of which the school made good progress.

Mr. Samuel H. Junkins had charge of the school during the winter term. Mr. Junkins evidently aimed to perform his duty as he understood it, and his efforts seem to have been satisfactory to the majority.

BRIXHAM.

Brixham is one of those schools, to visit which is a pleasure. Especially is this the case when the school is under the charge of such teachers as Miss Elizabeth Rogers and Miss Kate Moulton, the former of whom presided over the school in the spring and fall terms and the latter in the winter term. Decorous deportment and excellent recitations marked each term. Particularly good were the recitations in history, geography, grammar and analysis as well as in mathematics. The attendance is not what it should be, and a few pupils need the attention of the truant officer.

SCOTLAND.

Miss Theodosia L. Barrell had charge of the Scotland school during the spring and fall terms and was successful in making the school as interesting as so small a school can be. Miss Eugenia Junkins commenced the winter term, but after continuing one week was transferred to a larger school and Miss Marion Bragdon succeeded her as teacher. This was Miss Bragdon's first experience in teaching, and, as such, was an undoubted success.

CIDEK HILL.

This school was taught in the spring and fall terms by Miss Mattie O. Barrell. The spring term was held in the old school house, the fall term in the neat and comfortable one lately erected upon the new site. These terms seemed to be conducted with the teacher's usual ability and with a good degree of success, as was shown by the interest taken by the scholars. With discipline a little more strictly enforced, but little room would have been left for criticism.

Miss Eugenia Junkins taught the winter term with gratifying success. Miss Junkins is somewhat noted as a strict disciplinarian and as such, found in this school her true sphere.

SCITUATE.

The Scituate is a very good school in deportment, scholarship and attendance, and, under the judicious management of Miss Josephine McIntire during the entire school year, has made fair progress. This is a very neat and orderly school and the young lady pupils vie with each other in keeping their school room looking as a school room should, and, aided by their teacher, imparted an air of cheerfulness to the bare walls by many simple but artistic decorations, which added a homelike appearance quite foreign to the average school room.

AGAMENTICUS.

The spring term of the Agamenticus school was under the charge of Mr. W. J. Storer of Wells. Great expectations, based upon the teacher's previous experience, were indulged in, but as teacher and pupils both seemed to lack interest but little benefit accrued to the school.

Mr. William L. Grant conducted the fall and winter terms. Mr. Grant had not had previous experience, having but recently graduated from Berwick academy, but he performed his duties in a concientious manner and with an evident desire and intention to succeed. The attendance in the fall term, thanks to the teacher and the truant officer, was much better than the average, but in the winter term, for various reasons, fell off as usual.

NORTH VILLAGE.

In the northerly corner of the town, where only last spring stood the last survivor (in this town at least) of the "Old Red Schoolhouse", with its entrance in one corner, the visitor will now behold a new, neat, cheerful and comfortable building, well lighted, well warmed and furnished with the latest improved school furniture. In this house during the fall and winter terms, after the spring term in the old house, Miss Mary T. Wilson taught the pupils of the North Village school. Good progress was made by every scholar, and some fine recitations were listened to at the closing examination. The attendance was excellent.

CLAY HILL.

Miss Lilla B. Perkins of Wells, who has taught successfully, several terms in York, was engaged to teach the spring term of the Clay Hill school. The term progressed in a most satisfactory manner for one month, when the teacher was stricken with illness. and another teacher—Miss Mary F. Perkins, also of Wells, was procured to carry on the school. This she did in a satisfactory manner though it was her first experience as teacher. Mrs. Nellie F. Chapman who has had much experience in this school, taught the fall term, and Miss Nellie Littlefield of Wells, the winter term. Notwithstanding the frequent changes of teachers, the school stands well at the close of the school year.

PINE HILL.

Mrs. Nellie F. Chapman of Wells, taught the Pine Hill school in the spring and again in the winter. Mrs. Chapman's scholars seem fond of her and her schools present a pleasing appearance. On account of the appearance of measles about the middle of the winter term, the school was suspended for two weeks. This together with the fact, that for a week prior to suspension, the attendance had been small and that after resumption it was not up to the average, impaired the usefulness of the winter term.

In the fall term Miss A. Gertrude Junkins had charge of the school. Her success was gratifying. Much progress was observed in some of the classes, notably that in analysis. Miss Junkins offered prizes for the greatest improvement in writing and for the neatest appearing copy book. This created an interest among the class in penmanship, and the results were surprising. The loss of two weeks above referred to, and the loss of four weeks in the winter of 1893—4, on account of the illness of the teacher, should be made good in future terms, as opportunity may offer.

CAPE NEDDICK.

Cape Neddick school in the spring term, was taught by Miss Alice E. Libbey of Pittsfield, Maine. Miss Libbey is a teacher of long experience, industrious and faithful. She worked hard and faithfully to make her school a profitable one, and had the gratification of knowing that hers was not labor lost. Excellent order was maintained and teacher and pupils were on the most friendly terms.

Miss Eugenia Junkins succeeded Miss Libbey in the fall term and, due in part to her methods as a teacher and in part perhaps to the welcome change from that dingy and dismal den—the old school room, to the cheerful and comfortable new one, the fall term was successful in nearly every particular. During this term the National flag was unfurled over the house for the first time.

Mr. George A. Littlefield of Wells, taught the winter term. Mr. Littlefield was not a stranger to the school, having had charge of it before. He, therefore, enjoyed the advantage of acquaintance with the pupils and entered upon his duties with a fair knowledge of their needs.

YORK BEACH.

Last but not least in the list of schools comes that at York Beach. This school, which has increased largely since its establishment, has been presided over during the entire school year by Miss Effie Moulton, a teacher quite popular with parents and scholars. Very satisfactory progress has been made in all the different branches and a large degree of interest seemed to pervade the school. The discipline in this school, which, by the way, seems to convey the impression to the beholder that it is voluntary on the part of the pupils rather than enforced by the teacher, approaches perfection and is a feature worthy of all praise.

REMARKS.

The foregoing brief outline of school work, during the past year, does not and cannot present to the reader a definite idea of the progress of education in the town, nor is it possible, in a brief report like this to so present the matter that parents may understand the position of their children in the matter of mental training and educational acquirements.

While many of our schools have made, and are making commendable progress, others are far from occupying the advanced position that they ought to occupy, and all are a long way from perfection.

Country schools, from the very nature of the case, the fact that they are country schools, labor under many disadvantages as compared with city schools, which cannot be entirely surmounted. Some of these disadvantages are (1) Shorter terms with longer vacations; (2) Large and sparsely settled areas of country, which furnish the pupils—rendering attendance irregular; (3) Frequent change of teachers for various causes, some of which may be beyond control; (4) Unfitness on the part of teachers; (5) Indifference on the part of parents and guardians; and many others, which time and space forbid me to mention.

While some of these can scarcely be overcome, others may be mitigated to a greater or less extent. One of the above named disadvantages or evils—the employment of unsuitable teachers—it is possible to eradicate. It must, however, be done by the appropriation of money, sufficient to pay such salaries as will induce competent and efficient teachers, teachers who have been trained for their work, to accept positions in our schools.

A large percentage of the persons employed in country schools as teachers, have had no practical training to fit them for the profession of teaching, other than that gained by actual experience, gained at the expense of the schools which have furnished this experience. These teachers work cheaply but, I ask, is it economy to employ them?

The employment of unsuitable teachers is, to a great extent, the cause of that other evil, to wit: frequent change of teachers.

In some schools a cheap teacher may be employed in the spring or fall, who would not meet the requirement of the same school in the winter term. His or her place must, therefore, be filled with another, and the original teacher relegated to a smaller school, or left out altogether. Or, as is oftentimes the case, a teacher gives such poor satisfaction that it is not desirable to retain his or her services for more than one term in the same school.

Irregularity in attendance, for which, nine times out of ten, the parent or guardian is responsible, is another great hindrance to the efficiency of our schools. I am aware that this statement lacks the charm of novelty, it having been made and reiterated almost from time immemorial by teachers and school officers.

I am glad to be able to say that some improvement in this respect has been made during the past year, due to the efforts of the truant officer. Let not the town be without such an officer in the future.

The following, is an abstract from the registers of the different teachers, for the several terms:

FREE TEXT BOOKS.

The free text book system has been in force five years. Five years being more than the average life of a school book, those books originally furnished are mostly worn out and unfit for use. In fact, many have already been condemned and replaced, and this process will have to be continued indefinitely. I am of the opinion that $500.00 will be needed during the coming year to keep the supply of books even with the demand. The following is the roll of honor for the year.

SPECIAL MENTION.

DAVID W. YOUNG, aged 11 years; a member of Cider Hill school, has attended school nine consecutive terms without being absent one half day. His sister Sylvia, aged 8 years, has attended six consecutive terms without absence.

SCHOOL PROPERTY.

In the matter of school property the town has in the past few years, made a good start toward making our school houses what they should be. During the past year two new school houses have been erected and another so thoroughly repaired that it is practically new. Under the district system many of the districts did not own the land upon which their buildings were erected. It is desirable that the town shall own the land as well as the buildings, consequently where a new house was to be located a lot has been purchased for its accommodation.

The buildings at Cider Hill, Clay Hill, York Beach, North Village and Cape Neddick are new ones, and, of course, in good condition. The houses at the Village, Pine Hill and Scotland are furnished with the modern furniture as well as the new ones above enumerated. They are in good condition externally, except that at Pine Hill which needs to be shingled, but all need internal repairs.

The houses at Raynes Neck, South side, Scituate and Agamenticus need internal repairs and to be refurnished with modern furniture.

The buildings at Beech Ridge and Brixham have not improved since last year, and new ones or extensive repairs to the present ones are needed.

The Center schools are increasing in the number of pupils and additional accommodations are imperatively demanded. Provision should be made immediately for the accommodation of the Primary school, no suitable place being available.

I am aware that building and repairing school houses is expensive and some may object to it for that reason. But, to a certain extent it seems to be a matter of necessity rather than of choice. No one wishes to see his town dotted with old, delapidated school houses. The day of that class of buildings has passed. Once the school houses of York are placed in good condition, they can be kept so for years at comparatively trifling expense.

FREE HIGH SCHOOL.

The matter of a Free High school is one of general interest, not only to those who have children to attend such school, but to those whose children are not far enough advanced for such attendance. There are pupils in most of the schools so far advanced that they should be in a higher school. The multiplicity of their studies consumes much of the time of the teacher which should be devoted to the younger pupils who compose the larger part of all the schools, and at the same time these studies are pursued to far less advantage than would accrue in a school where higher branches are a specialty.

A high school should be established without further delay and a sum of money appropriated sufficient to insure success from the start. Not less than $500 00 should be appropriated.

A bill is before the legislature of the State of Maine, making it obligatory upon all towns of not less than one thousand inhabitants, to maintain a Free High school. Shall the Town of York neglect her duty in this regard until forced by law to recognize it? Perish the thought.

Respectfully submitted,

C. I. HUTCHINS,

Supervisor of Schools.
